Before You Begin

Each application has a unique identification number listed at the top of this page. Applications submitted without a valid Application ID will not be considered.

Do not pay anyone money or fees for preparing or reviewing this application.

If you cannot fit all your information on one form, request an additional application page from HPD or the person who helped you with this application. You can also find forms on HPD's website: nyc.gov/hpd/ctr.

After You Submit the Application

If your contact information changes after submitting, notify HPD at (917) 286-4300 or DTPlights@hpd.nyc.gov.

What Happens Next

- After you submit the application and required documents, HPD will add you to the waitlist.
- Once selected from the waitlist, you will complete briefing materials and get a voucher.
- Next, if you are a tenant-based voucher holder, you will look for housing unless you plan to stay in your current location. When you find housing, the owner will schedule an inspection with HPD.
- Once the unit passes inspection, you will sign the lease and move in. Subsidy payments from HPD will begin.

A PLATFORM TO INFORM EFFECTIVE PERSON-CENTERED POLICYMAKING

PROBLEM

Policies and systems are designed from a systems perspective, rather than by and with the public.

OUR GOAL

Create an infrastructure to recruit, ethically consent, pay, and maintain relationships with members of the public over time

Build an online database with tagged multimodal/multi-language research data that can be expanded with new topics and participants

Provide an extensible platform for collecting lived-experience data and generating policy insights – and sharing them publicly

Research Pool to Date

- 140 Older Adults in 15 states
- 11 Caregivers & Staff
- 13 Subject-Matter Experts

Research Data

4,000+ Data Units
200+ Hours of Research
115 Topics

Online Platform

- Database
- Participant Profiles
- Insights for Action

Legislators, policymakers, and staff

can use the platform to understand the lived experience of their constituents and find compelling inspiration and evidence on key policy issues.

Agency and program leaders

can use the database to learn about their service beneficiaries' needs and challenges – and their preferences for service improvement.

Advocates, researchers, and designers

can hear older adults speak firsthand about their experiences and aspirations.

The People Say is a qualitative data platform featuring older adults talking about their lives and the policy issues that affect them.

Older Adults' Needs

To make better coverage decisions, older adults need benefits eligibility, access, and coverage to be more straightforward.

Insight for Action

The complexity of healthcare coverage choices and benefits eligibility makes many older adults opt for (or default to) random and/or uninformed choices. They miss out on needed benefits or savings they might be eligible for.

"Then I start getting, like, $109 [in food stamps]. Then the next month, if your income is more on your Social Security, they drop it down, then you get less. Then if you don't get no raise on your social security, then they raise it up. It's based on your income. How much you paying rent, utility bills, and stuff like that. It's based on that. That's how you get your food stamp up to a little level. But other than that, it doesn't bother me none because I always had to put money with it to buy extra stuff that I wanted. So, it helped out, and then again it didn't help, but it was alright though."

lang →

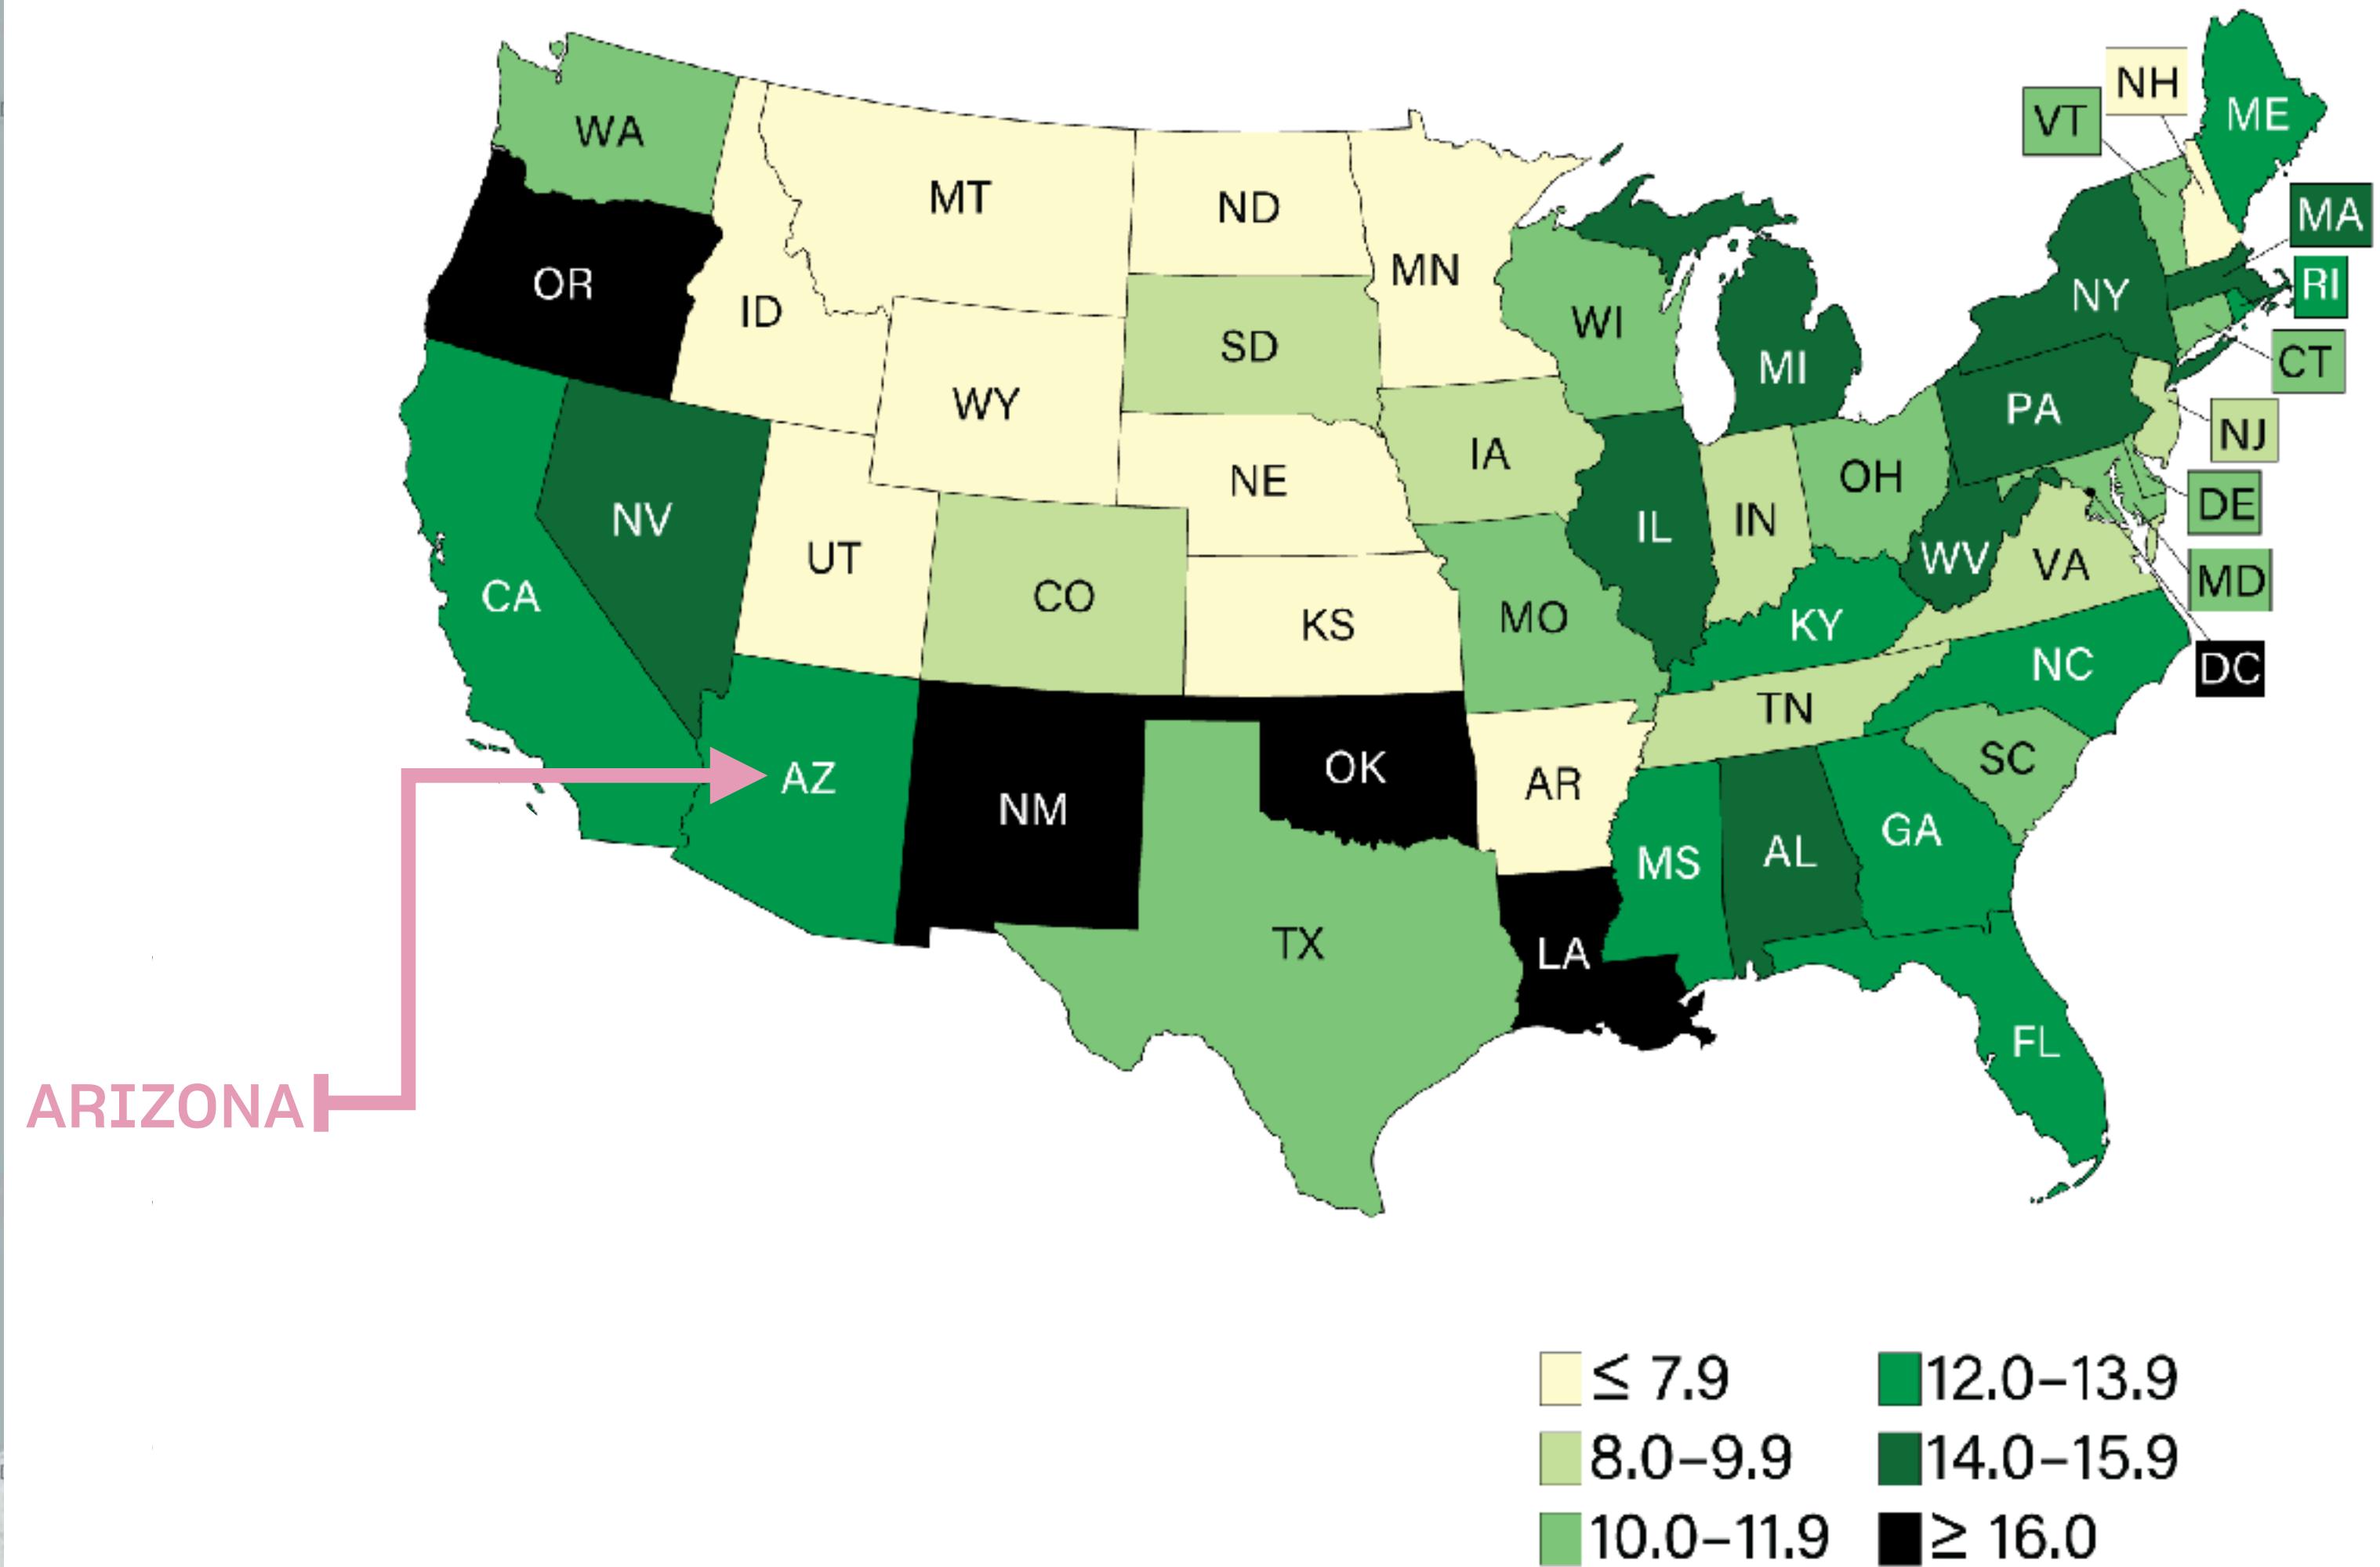

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) provides a monthly payment, solely for food expenses, to eligible U.S. households earning 130% or less than the federal poverty level – currently ~£23,870 for a family of four.

The program is federally funded, but state administered. In Fiscal Year 2024, the percent of state residents receiving SNAP ranged from a high of 21.2% in New Mexico to a low of 4.8% in Utah.
